
Contents

Credit crunch – phase two	The credit crunch has moved into a second phase, raising a new set of questions for central bankers.	1
News analysis	Claire Jones analyses how central bankers have been forced into activism and cooperation.	4
Interview	Charles Goodhart on central bankers’ efforts to address the credit market turmoil.	9
Lessons of Northern Rock	British lawmakers look to fix a broken regulatory framework.	12
Banknotes	A round-up of news and salient issues that have affected central bankers in the last three months.	15
People	Central bankers in the news and on the move.	19
China’s monetary mandarins	Andrew Peale profiles the China’s most important financial policymakers.	23
Into the limelight	Malan Rietveld analyses the rising profile of sovereign wealth funds.	28
The rising financial power of emerging markets	Jacques de Larosière says the system needs to adapt to the rising financial power of emerging markets.	31
A liability-based approach to sovereign wealth	Andrew Rozanov explains why it is important to look on both sides of sovereign balance sheet.	37

Sovereign wealth meets poverty	Matt Sekerke questions Chinese officials' captivation with international financial markets.	42
Northern Rock and the law	Charles Proctor considers the legal barriers that complicated the official response to the Northern Rock crisis.	44
Who signs the banknotes?	Åke Lönnberg explains who signs banknotes – and why.	48
A match made in heaven?	Terry Beadle says central banks' needs fit the application service provider approach to IT.	53
Why Argentina did not have a currency board	The idea that Argentina ran a currency board from 1991 to 2002 is wrong, argues Steve Hanke.	56
Special feature: Value for money		59
Financial accountability for central banks	Expert articles on the need for central banks to demonstrate sound financial management and be transparent in reporting financial results.
Booknotes	Reviews of two new books on central banking.	89
Obituaries	Stephen Frowen and Terry Smeeton.	93