

CONTENTS

COMMENT	Preventing terrorist financing	1
NEWS	Citigroup pays the price • Home field advantage for Italian banks? • New faces at the OCC, SEC • Blair: FSA inhibits efficient business • McCreevy rejects new hedge fund regulation • Fannie Mae's taxing restatements • Probe into General Re ... • ... and Spitzer files civil lawsuit • Funds reform causes split in SEC • "Time-honoured basics" needed • Scrushy cleared of fraud • Calls for more transparency at SEC; FSA floats enforcement changes • "Staggering" sentence for Ebbers • Enron "curtain-raiser" flops • Oxley says own act has flaws • Warning to mortgage lenders • Anyone at home for buy-to-let schemes? • Mifid under attack • Poor scores in first Lamfalussy league • Working for the FSA • Anti money laundering hindered • Enthusiasm wanes for Basel II • Offshore account holders open up • IFRS unites European regulators... • ... as IASB comes under fire • First sentences over Parmalat scandal • Brussels to carry out financial services probe • "Insufficient oversight" at Commerzbank • Nigeria stays on FATF blacklist • Australia and NZ close to regulation • Tokyo Stock Exchange at loggerheads with regulator • China aims for international accounting norms • Let-off for foreign banks in Japan? • Korea's regulator gets tough ... • ... and puts out the "Welcome" mat	3
NEWS ANALYSIS	Palazzo Koch under siege Isabella Bufacchi reports from Rome on the battle to reform Italy's beleaguered central bank.	17
	When will Basel II bite? Nick Carver reports on non-G10 countries' plans to implement Basel II.	21
TERRORIST FINANCING	Who is winning the war on terrorist financing? Jimmy Gurulé, former under secretary in the US treasury, evaluates the global effort to stem the flow of money to terrorists.	25
	Follow the money Traditional anti-money-laundering systems won't be effective in tracing terrorist funding argue Peter Reuter and Edwin Truman.	35

THE Financial Regulator

Volume 10 Number 2 – September 2005

	What do prosecutors need?	38
	Asking banks to play detective does not work says John Moscow. Prosecutors need less bank secrecy and better record keeping to stem the flow of terrorist financing.
SWITZERLAND	Interview: Daniel Zuberbühler	43
	Switzerland's Federal Banking Commission supervises two of the world's largest banks with a staff of less than 200. Neil Curtis asks the director how they cope.
FINANCIAL EDUCATION AND EXCLUSION	Reaching South Africa's unbanked	51
	Half of South Africans lack access to the banking system. Jenny Tyobeka reports on efforts to reach out to the unbanked.
	How to educate consumers	57
	Why do so few consumers understand basic finance? Barbara Smith, from the OECD's financial education project, examines financial education initiatives that can help.
CITIGROUP TRADE	Why Citigroup was fined	65
	The FSA's enforcement action against Citigroup has highlighted the importance of formal compliance controls. Jonathan Herbst and Mathew Rutter from Norton Rose consider the implications.
NORDEA	Nordea points the way to better bank regulation	69
	Nordea need not be a headache for Nordic supervisors, but they must follow through on European principles argue Lawrence Goldberg, Richard Sweeney and Clas Wihlborg.
JAPAN'S POSTAL SAVINGS	Japan's postal savings showdown	78
	As Japan's prime minister prepares to fight a general election on the issue, Thomas Cargill and Hal Scott consider the controversy over the country's postal savings system.	